Transracial Adoption Study

Faculty in the Department of Family Science, in conjunction with The Center for Adoption Support and Education (CASE), are initiating a national survey of transracially adopted adolescents and their families. The specific focus of the study is to examine the impact of family characteristics on the overall adjustment, self-esteem and racial identity of racial minority youth adopted by white parents.

We believe this research will benefit us in providing better services to the youth and families we serve. We encourage you to consider participating.

Who can participate?

If the parent or parents in your family are white and there is a least one racial minority adolescent between the ages of 14-18, you may qualify.

What will I be asked to do?

Both parent and child will be asked to complete an on-line survey that will take approximately 20 minutes. Adolescents who complete the survey will receive a $10 iTunes gift card.

How do I find out more about the study?

If you would like to know more about the study or are interested in participating, contact:
